Forecast For Strathclyde
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 22 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Windy tonight. Cloudy with some patchy rain on Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Cloud and patchy rain clearing from the northwest this evening. Then dry and clear for a time before further cloud, with rain across Argyll, spreads southeast later. Becoming windy, gales developing across the Isles later. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Thursday:
Cloudy with some patchy light rain, although rain will be more persistent across Argyll especially early and late. Fresh occasionally strong westerly winds easing by early afternoon. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cloudy with some patchy rain at first on Friday, this confined to the south later, otherwise dry and bright. Occasional rain over the weekend but some dry and brighter interludes.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.